

BREAD AND WATER INJUNCTION ORDER DENIED BY JUDGE

Tekamah, Neb., September 15.—(AP) An injunction to restrain Burt county officials from continuing their bread and water diet ordered as part punishment for Roy Carson, liquor law violator, was refused here today. Three others in jail on similar sentences tonight believed they would have to continue their sentences in view of the failure of Carson's application. They are: Thomas Nelson, 50, farmer; Max Saltzman, 16, in jail here, and Fred Dirks, who is on his fifth day's diet sentence in jail in Harrington. All but Dirks have made unsuccessful appeals for sentence modification. Ten days has been trimmed from the 20-day diet stretch for Carson, whom the Burt county physician declared was undernourished and not in a condition to stand a long diet. District Judge Fitzgerald ruled his court had no jurisdiction in the matter and that sentence modification was a purely administrative function provided for by law and vested in the county physician and sheriff.

South Georgia Optimism Spreading Over Section, Albany Editor Declares

H. T. McIntosh, Here En Route to Mountains, Sees Southwest Georgia's Greatest Year.

HENRY T. MCINTOSH.

An era of unprecedented prosperity in southwest Georgia is forecast by Henry T. McIntosh, editor of The Albany (Ga.) Herald, who, accompanied by Mrs. McIntosh, is at the Biltmore hotel for a few days en route to the mountains for a vacation.

Optimism reigns in southwest Georgia, with business conditions excellent, McIntosh said. His paper, The Herald, is the leading daily of southwest Georgia, due to the combined efforts of the late Henry M. McIntosh and the son, Henry T., who succeeded his father as editor of the paper. The McIntoshes originated the "hog and hominy" slogan for that part of the state, and largely through their efforts that was the first part of the state to get away from the domination of the system of one crop control.

Prospects Glowing.

Of the situation here, Mr. McIntosh said Wednesday: "Southwest Georgia thinks pretty well of itself and admits it. Perhaps there is a little of vanity in that view, but there is also a good deal of the sort of pride that is born of the consciousness of strength.

"For southwest Georgia is fundamentally sound. Consider the money crops we grow there, now that we have gotten definitely away from the all-cotton system—tobacco, peanuts, hay, pecans, sugar cane, melons, peaches, truck, corn, hogs, poultry and eggs. The farm dairy herd is now a definite part of the farm program, and there is a sense of security against financial depression such as was never enjoyed before.

"This year has served to demonstrate admirably the working of the new program. The cotton crop deteriorated as the result of an excess of rain in August, though a good average yield is in sight. But the other money crops have thrown out anchors of safety, and they are holding. Tobacco put millions in circulation. Southwest Georgia peaches did unusually well by the growers, the glut of markets considered. We will harvest our greater corn crop, and the cooperative hog sales have already begun. The peanut yield is off, but prices promise to be good—the sort of compensation that works out under a diversified crop system.

Optimism Spreads.

"Best of all, perhaps, is the spirit of optimism which pervades the section. Business is good and a feeling is abroad that it will be better. There is no unemployment. The towns are growing. Using Albany as an example, building totals for 1926 have already come within a few thousands of those of 1925, which established a new high mark.

"It is a poor citizen who cannot muster the pride which makes a booster for his community or his section. I plead guilty under such impeachment, but have no apologies to offer. For we feel in southwest Georgia that we are coming into our own through the working out of perfectly logical developments. We are beginning to develop the resources which make our section favored, and we are 'keeping step' with Georgia's best advancement.

"And may I add just this—that we keep our eyes on Atlanta, whence cometh the inspiration for the best that Georgia can hope for. We come to Atlanta to marvel at what we see, for it is as though you rubbed an Aladdin's lamp continuously. Yet we know that Atlanta is but expressing the faith that she has in herself, and I often wonder if Atlantans themselves realize what they mean to the rest of the state. As a southwest Georgian, I gratefully and ungrudgingly acknowledge the obligation."

3-YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN TO JOHNSON

Decatur, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—The jury in the trial of W. B. Johnson, charged with the death of W. B. Guffin on July 5, near Chamblee, early tonight returned a verdict of involuntary manslaughter with recommendation of a three-year sentence. Judge John B. Hutcheson, trial judge, immediately sentenced Johnson to three years in the penitentiary.

The case went to the jury at 3 o'clock this afternoon and at 7 o'clock the verdict was returned. The trial opened Tuesday. Few witnesses were introduced.

Johnson, who operated a filling station on Peachtree road, near Chamblee, was charged with killing Guffin about midnight after Guffin and W. B. Dooley drove into Johnson's station and sought to buy gasoline after closing hours.

Johnson told the jury that on the night of the killing, Guffin and Dooley drove up to his station after business hours and demanded gasoline. He stated that he gave them about three gallons of gasoline and Dooley attempted to hit him over the head with a jack from the rear seat of the automobile where he said he was hidden. The pair then drove off, he said, and in an effort to turn them over to officers he followed their car firing at the rear tires.

He admitted firing four shots at the fleeing pair but denied he had any intention of hitting either of them, desiring only to puncture a tire so that he could have them arrested. After following them for some distance he said that they escaped and that he returned home.

The story told by Dooley, prosecution witnesses, differed from Johnson's defense in several details. Dooley said that Johnson refused to sell them gasoline and, when they departed, followed them up Peachtree road firing four or five times. When the car, driven by Guffin, arrived at the railroad tracks near Chamblee Dooley said that Guffin slumped over in his seat and fell against him. He then told of summoning aid and of Guffin's death at Grady hospital.

County Solicitor Robert C. W. Ramspeck, conducted the prosecution and Attorneys Howard and Burgess represented Johnson.

UNION CANDIDATE TO FILE PROTEST OF PRIMARY VOTE

The democratic executive committee of Union county will have to pass upon the question of whether Edgar D. Kenyon or Robert McMillan was the voters' choice for the solicitor generalship of the northeastern circuit, Ed Maddox, of Rome, chairman of the state executive committee, ruled Wednesday.

In laying the case before Chairman Maddox at the state capitol, contestants were informed that either could appeal from the decision of the Union county executive committee to the state executive committee.

Although returns sent to Mrs. Besie Anderson, secretary of the state committee, show that Mr. Kenyon was elected by eight votes, this result was challenged by Mr. McMillan, who contended that he had been deprived of 30 votes in Union county through an error in consolidating the returns. After hearing the case Chairman Maddox declared that the contest should be heard by the committee in the county where the alleged mistake was made, and then an appeal could be presented to the state committee by either party, should the decision be questioned.

WATERWAYS BODY BEGINS SESSIONS

Richmond, Va., September 15.—(AP) The proposal for shortening and deepening the channel of the James river to Richmond was mentioned a number of times at the first business session today of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, in convention here.

This, it appeared, is one of the more important projects which is advocated by members of the association interested in a unified system of inland waterways along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida.

J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the association, spoke of the James river development in his opening address. Colonel F. A. Pope, U. S. A., district engineer, Norfolk, Va., outlined the project in some detail, and Congressman Bland, of Virginia, also referred to it.

A letter from President Coolidge was read at the morning session, in which the chief executive expressed his approval of the purpose for which the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association is formed.

Governor Harry F. Byrd in his address welcoming the members of the association to Virginia emphasized the economic importance of inland waterways. Cheaper transportation provided through inland waterways, he said, should do much toward solving the problems of the farmer by enabling him to secure a fair price for his product.

Development of each form of transportation in the field for which it is best adapted, giving to the country a unified and balanced system of communication was the theme of the address of George D. Ogden, traffic manager of the Pennsylvania railroad. He declared that railways, highways, waterways and airways are all necessary and useful. Each has its own place and the proper development of any one is not injurious to any other. Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd was presented with an honor medal on behalf of the city of Richmond at the convention tonight. Following the presentation, Commander Byrd entertained the delegates with an address illustrated by motion pictures of his record-making journey into the Arctic regions and his flight over the North pole.

HARDMAN ATTACKS HOLDER ON BONDS

Holder was one of the leading advocates of a state-wide highway bond issue. Only as recently as the legislature before the last he made an official report to the general assembly over his signature, clamoring for a $70,000,000 bond issue for good roads. He said that such an issue would pay for itself in 30 years without costing the people an additional penny. He argued that the cost of maintaining Georgia's roads is $250 per mile per annum, while paved roads could be maintained at almost one-fourth of that amount. He declared that $1,250,000 was going to waste every year in Georgia under the present system and he argued, with all the fervor of a burning enthusiast, that the only salvation of the state was a highway bond issue, even going so far as to name $70,000,000 as the first amount that should be submitted to the people.

Criticizes Holder's Change.

"Why did he change his position so suddenly?" "Simply because when his report was submitted to the general assembly the immediate reply was, 'Under no circumstances will we submit to the people a $70,000,000 bond issue as long as you, Mr. Holder, are to be responsible for its administration. Join us in the movement to revolutionize the highway department administration by cleaning out this board and putting in a new one, and we will then talk about the advisability of a bond issue.'"

"In other words, when Mr. Holder showed that his advocacy of a state-wide bond issue was countered with the proposition that he had to be abolished before any such question was submitted to the people, he promptly took the back track by stultifying his own position. His position meant more to him than consistency did."

"Of all the men in Georgia who should be talking against bond issues he is the last one to raise this issue, for he was the original highway bond man of the state, appealing for bonds in his public addresses throughout the state, his activity culminating with his official recommendation to the general assembly."

"I repeat that the highway bond issue plays no part in this campaign—if it did the people would not look to Mr. Holder as the spokesman of the side for which he now assumes to speak."

"A bond issue can only be submitted by the general assembly. The governor does not even possess the right to veto such action. As governor I would have no more to do with the subject than I would with the settlement of our foreign obligations."

"I do not assume to influence the legislature in a matter with which the governor has nothing whatsoever to do. Machine Politics the Issue."

"Everybody recognizes this last howl of Mr. Holder as an effort to sidetrack the main issue, which is the wiping out of machine politics in Georgia and the restoration to the state of a safe, sound and sane businesslike administration. The people have shown their determination to adopt this policy, by their expression in the recent primary. The victory was three-fourths won then and it would have been complete had the people known the depth of the sentiment existing throughout the state against further domination by machine administration."

"As it was, the forces of reform were divided into three lines—one supported by Mr. Carswell, one Mr. Wood and the other me. The combined majority was overwhelming against the machine-ridden reactionary combination headed by Candidate Holder."

"Holder had the hand-wagon running his way all through the campaign because the people did not believe that so powerful a machine could be overwhelmed. Now that it has been shown that the job is easy, and now that the advocates of reform have all united on me as the leading man, the hand-wagon is no longer a menace, for evidence was indisputable that it is running at increased speed in the other direction. It is impossible for me even now to keep up with replies to those who supported Holder and who now write that they are for me. Such mail increases every day. "I call upon the people of Georgia to be on the watch. The only possible danger lies in re-confidence in the machine politicians are ever awake. Their organization ramifies every county in the state. These trained men are on the job. They always turn out at elections. It is their business to do so for the people of this state under a nefarious system are paying them hundreds of thousands of dollars a year out of the hard earned money of the taxpayers to stand guard for the machine and to see to it that every machine man in Georgia is at the polls on election day. "I want to see this system of machine control wiped out in Georgia and my access is the surest promise that it will be done."

"What Georgia needs now more than anything else is an era of sound, safe and businesslike administrations, and the people of this state would as soon go to a hog wallow for a basket of fruit as to go to Mr. Holder and his crowd of machine politicians for a governor who would be expected to give them a safe, sane, business administration." In a statement here Wednesday Alex A. Chamblee, campaign manager for Dr. Hardman, stated that the Brown machine had been given a stinging defeat at the polls and that voters would likewise consolidate and overwhelmingly bury the Holder highway machine. In discussing the campaign Mr. Chamblee said:

"We have defeated Brown and his farm machine. Now, we are going to smash Holder and his road machine. We are going to use machines to run a political machine. Taxpayers of Georgia are paying millions annually for road construction and upkeep. Huge sums are being wasted. Part of this money is being used to attempt to nominate Holder on October 6. But, 'Old Man People' will not be fooled. They are being taxed, harassed and promised this and that, but they are getting nothing. This demagoguery must stop. We must have a business administration and Dr. Hardman is the logical man to restore stability in this state."

THE General Motors Research Laboratories cooperated with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., in the development of Duco—an achievement ranking in importance with the invention of the self-starter.

Duco is not only far more lasting than paint and varnish; it is finer, more beautiful and more economical to apply in factory production.

Duco was first adopted by Oakland, and immediately thereafter by the rest of the General Motors cars.

Buyers of General Motors cars have profited by the development of this finer, more enduring finish. Their cars wear well longer.

Business Men Interested In University, Says Speaker

Athens, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—Declaring that he is only one of an army of business men who have come to be intensely interested in the welfare of the university, W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, delivered the principal address at the formal opening today of the University of Georgia's 127th annual session.

Chancellor Charles Snelling, who was elected last June to succeed Chancellor David C. Barrow, presided, and introduced the speaker.

"No longer can it be claimed," Mr. Anderson said, "that the future of the state depends solely upon the professional men. A new day, a new vision, has come in to Georgia, for the business men of this state have never before learned to relate themselves to the vital problems that face her. Among those tasks, education is perhaps the most important."

The treatment of the university in the past, Mr. Anderson declared, "is a disgrace to any people. The university should be the head of the whole educational system of the state and should be given all the support that is needed."

A feature of the address which drew continued applause from the assembly was the speaker's advocacy of a bond issue to meet the financial needs of the state educational system. He pointed out that practically every institution in the system needs either remodeling from the ground up or extensive repairs, and declared that a bond issue seemed to be the only means of raising sufficient funds.

The Rev. W. S. Robinson, president of the Athens district, extended a welcome to the student body on behalf of the churches of Athens.

The university begins its 127th session under bright auspices and prospects for the largest attendance in its history. Already the registrants for the freshman class are more than 50 over what last year totaled, and the number will very probably go 100 over the previous year, which was a record breaker. The number of women students has also increased this year.

Members of the freshman class reported last week and registration for them is over, with but few exceptions. The upper classesmen began arriving in large numbers Monday and Tuesday and many of them had finished the details of formally entering Wednesday. All the halls and corridors of the academic building were crowded Wednesday morning as the students

Miss Helen Knox Spain, chairman of music of the Atlanta Writers' club, announced Wednesday a made-in-Atlanta song for the meeting tonight of the Writers' club in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's club.

The poem of this song, "The Rose," was written by George R. Stephens and the music is by his daughter, Miss Helen M. Stephens, of the Morgan Stephens conservatory. The song will be sung by Miss Lillian Smith, a member of the faculty of the Lula Clark Stephens school, accompanied by Miss Stephens.

Committees will be announced and plans outlined for the year's work.

Clear, Balmy Day, Slightly Cooler, Seen for Section

Clear skies and moderate temperatures is Atlanta's weather menu for today, according to local weather bureau forecasts. The same climatic conditions will obtain throughout the surrounding country. A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist, said.

Wednesday's low mark of 63 degrees, which was four points below that of the preceding day, indicated a slight tendency toward cooler weather, although no unusual break in the hot spell is in sight, the weatherman said.

The maximum temperature for Wednesday, which was 83 degrees, also was several points lower than the high of the preceding day. Today's range of temperatures will be about the same as on Wednesday.

Two Are Arrested On Charge of Beating Up Savannah Citizen

Savannah, Ga., September 15.—(P) To be taken forcibly into Bryan county, severely beaten with a black jack and stick so that a mass of cuts and bruises resulted and then to be brought back to the city and turned over to the county police on a charge of passing a worthless check was the unusual experience of J. E. Macon of No. 2020 Habersham street, last night.

Macon, who says he was thoroughly "done up" by the rough treatment accorded him, got into trouble with F. D. Dismuke, deputy administrator of prohibition, from the count jail about 10 o'clock last night. His story was related and George H. Riel, United States commissioner, who issued a warrant upon which A. W. Stuart, deputy United States marshal, arrested J. M. Futch and Mrs. I. M. Futch, who operate a store at the corner of Wayne and Jefferson streets.

The county police are seeking two other men charged with being implicated in the beating of Macon. The defendants were incarcerated and unless they can make bond of $5,000 each much remain in jail until Friday when a preliminary hearing is to be held before Commissioner Richter.

SAFETY CLUB URGES DRIVERS BE LICENSED

Immediate action in establishing a bureau to examine and license all automobile drivers in the city of Atlanta was urged at a luncheon of the Atlanta Safety club Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock in the main dining room of the Ansley hotel.

Among those speaking in the interest of a traffic bureau to govern and control issuance of automobile drivers licenses were: Mrs. R. H. Wolfe, chairman of the Atlanta council; Parent-Teacher association and child welfare committee of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs; Frank Hooper, Jr., representative of legislature from Fulton county; Joe H. Reed, A. L. Belle Isle, W. M. Casey, and J. Allen Couch and C. M. Ford, two candidates for mayor of Atlanta.

EXECUTION HOURS AT STATE PRISON MAY BE CHANGED

Changes in the hours fixed for legal executions at the state prison at Milledgeville will be suggested to the state prison commission by R. H. Dunaway, superintendent at that institution, it was learned Wednesday.

Superintendent Dunaway will recommend that the hours of execution be fixed between 12:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. and he will ask the prison commission to urge superior court judges to fix these hours in sentences.

Under the present system condemned prisoners are executed about noon or early in the afternoon. The superintendent said at this hour crowds of morbid and curious persons flock to the prison and that officials at the prison, the condemned men, their relatives and others were demoralized by these crowds.

It also will be pointed out that the prison depends for its electric current used in the electric chair on a power plant that also supplies industries at Milledgeville. At a recent execution the superintendent was forced to ask these plants to suspend activities so that a sufficient amount of current would be available for the electrocution of a man.

B. Y. P. U. Speakers Ready for Contest For City Honors

The final declamation contest between Walter G. Cooper, of the West End Baptist church, and Thomas J. Durrett, of the First Baptist church, will feature the quarterly meeting of the Atlanta B. Y. P. U. City union tonight at 8 o'clock at the Second Baptist church.

Seventy representatives of various Baptist churches in the city were at first entered in the speaking contest and by a series of elimination, the contest to decide the best orator in the city union has narrowed down to the finals between Cooper and Durrett.

Mr. Cooper was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1924, while his opponent, Mr. Durrett, graduated from Georgia Tech in the class of 1925.

Judges for the contest tonight are Judge W. F. Jenkins, of the state court of appeals; Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the municipal court of Atlanta, and Carlton W. Bins, former state B. Y. P. U. president and assistant solicitor of the city court.

Operation Prevented by Alabama Lady

Mrs. C. H. Padgett, 629 Quindler street, Anniston, Ala., says: "You have my permission to use my testimonial. I hope every one suffering with varicose veins will read it."

My varicose veins were of 12 years' growth and caused terrible distress. I will write to any one about my experience with Serravallo's Tonic, a colorless, inoffensive, sold at all drug stores, and which has cured me. Mechanicville, Ohio. Locally at E. H. Cobb, Inc.—(adv.)

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunces.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunces are reduced to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Jacobs' Pharmacy Co. sells lots of it.—(adv.)

Hundreds Attend Ceremonies Of Cudahy Packing Plant Opened to Public Wednesday

Visitors View Intricate System Used in Bringing Fresh Meats to Atlanta Tables.

Several hundred Atlantans visited the handsome new plant of the Cudahy Packing company Wednesday when it was formally opened to the public. This morning the plant, one of the most modern and scientifically equipped in the entire southeast, will open for business.

Included in the hundreds who passed through the many interesting departments of the large packing plant Wednesday were buyers, hotel men, fellow packers, housewives and hundreds of "ultimate consumers." The visitors were conducted through the building, and were fascinated with the marvellously efficient arrangement of the plant.

Millions of pounds of meat were on exhibit. The visitors were shown how the various meats, which included beef, pork, veal, lamb, mutton and poultry, are prepared for distribution after being received at the plant. They were shown the intricate refrigerating system, the only one of its kind in the south, which keeps more than a score of different departments of the plant at the most ideal temperatures. From the time the meat reaches the plant until it is sent to Atlanta patrons, it is kept wholesome and fresh through this great system of refrigeration.

Every piece of meat is recorded for weight, quality and cost. Not an ounce passes through the plant without being carefully inspected, weighed and checked.

Of all the exhibits, probably one of the most interesting was the sausage department. Huge hampers of finely ground pork were on exhibit and the visitors witnessed the making of sausage and wieners. Expert men and women are employed at the machines, while a corps of experts does nothing but attend to the seasoning of the sausage meats.

In addition to the many different meats, the Cudahy company handles cheese, eggs, butter and similar products. These were on display Wednesday and formed objects of interest to visitors, who were shown, among other things, how each egg is individually inspected and tested.

Moving pictures were exhibited at the plant which showed what is done to the meats at the Chicago plant before being shipped to the various distributing branches, such as Atlanta. Refreshments were served and the women visitors were presented with souvenirs.

CORONER BAFFLED IN TUMLIN MURDER

is being held on suspicion pending arrival of Fulton county authorities and is expected to arrive in Atlanta this morning.

According to advices from Chief of Police Strickland, of Fitzgerald, Silver was driving through the country from Atlanta with his wife and at a farm house a few miles from Fitzgerald became involved in an altercation with a farmer's wife. Police say that he killed the woman around the house and threatened to kill her, but neighbors prevented trouble and called Fitzgerald authorities.

Blood spots were said to have been found on Silver's clothing, and he was found to be bareheaded, according to dispatches. Questioned as to his whereabouts for the day or two, he became very nervous, they state, and showed extreme nervousness when asked about the Tumlin case. His wife was not held, and left Fitzgerald stating that she would return to Atlanta.

Blood spots on a metal bucket that hung in the well at the rear of the Tumlin house failed to reveal any tangible clue to the identity of the murderer, according to Captain M. J. Wright, fingerprint expert of the city police department, who declared that no prints were visible. It is thought the slayer went to the well and washed his hands of blood before leaving the scene. The bucket was brought to Captain Wright for examination.

Flance On Stand.

T. J. King, railroad switchman living on Howell Mill road, who was engaged to marry Miss Tumlin on October 15, testified at the hearing that he had been forced to flee from the home on one occasion at the point of a pistol in the hands of the murdered woman's brother, J. J. Tumlin.

Other witnesses—women neighbors of Miss Tumlin—testified that on several occasions Miss Tumlin had expressed fear that she would come to some harm at the hands of her brother if he learned that he was "keeping company with Mr. King."

Mrs. J. C. Anglin, a neighbor, declared that Miss Tumlin visited her home on the Saturday before the killing, and expressed belief that she was going to die soon. After Miss Tumlin discussed her brother's dislike of King, Anglin said that Miss Tumlin added: "I hate to see night come, because I just don't know what to expect from Jim."

"I asked her if she was going to marry Mr. King," Mrs. Anglin declared. "Then she said: 'I may die.' I said: 'I don't like to hear anybody talk that way, Miss Amanda.' Then she said: 'I wouldn't care if I knew I would wake up in the morning dead. She left after telling us that if we didn't see her living again to come to her funeral.'"

"We were all talking and laughing, but Miss Amanda seemed to be serious."

Angered at Conversation.

"She also told us of a conversation her brother told her he had with Mrs. Ruby Algood, which she said had made Jim Tumlin mad. Miss Amanda said that Mrs. Algood told Mr. Tumlin that Miss Amanda was planning to marry Mr. King. When he got home that night she said Jim was mad and asked her if she had been seeing Mr. King. She said she told not very often. She said he looked himself up in his room and wouldn't have anything more to do with her that night."

King testified that he had known the dead woman all her life and that he had been going with her about three years. The only times Tumlin ever ordered him away from the house was when he was drinking, King declared.

The last time he visited Miss Tumlin was a week ago Tuesday, King said. He had planned going on the morning of the murder, but did not go, he said. King told of numerous occasions on which his fiancée had warned him against her brother, begging him not to stay long because if Jim Tumlin found out that he was coming to see her "he'd give me a lot of trouble."

"She told me that he never mistreated her except when he was drinking," the witness said.

"Who do you live with, Mr. King," asked Coroner Paul Donehoo.

"With my three daughters."

Asked About Size of Shoe.

"What size shoe do you wear?"

"About seven and a half."

"Did you ever make Miss Tumlin a present?"

"Yes, last Christmas a year ago I gave her a wrist watch."

"Did her brother ever find out about it?"

"No, I don't think he did."

Mrs. Algood, to whom Mrs. Anglin referred in her testimony, was called to the stand. She declared that she had never had any conversation with Jim Tumlin about Miss Tumlin a year ago, and that she had never said anything to him about them getting married.

Brothers and Sister Testify.

G. B. Tumlin and G. C. Tumlin and Mrs. Charles Dowis, brothers and sister of the slain woman, declared that they were unable to offer any theory for the murder other than robbery.

"Is there anyone you suspect?" Coroner Donehoo asked.

"No, sir," was the answer of each witness.

Mrs. Dowis was obviously grief-stricken, and wept steadily throughout the hearing.

Mrs. Leona Brown was another neighbor of the Tumlins who testified that Miss Tumlin feared her brother on account of her relations with King. She declared that Miss Tumlin visited her Saturday and told her that if her brother found out about King she "didn't know what to expect to night." She paused for a few moments, Mrs. Brown declared, and then said: "I don't know."

"If you don't come to see me living—come to my funeral," Mrs. Brown declared. Miss Tumlin said as she left her home.

Youth Sees Stranger.

Miles Rosser, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rosser, who lives next door to the house in which Miss Tumlin was slain, declared that he was at work on the morning of the murder building a garage on his father's place. He told of seeing a stranger walking down the driveway which leads from the road to the Tumlin house.

He was at work about 500 feet, he said, from the Tumlin house, and did not hear any unusual sounds or anything that would arouse suspicion. He attached no importance to the appearance of the stranger, he said. The boy noticed the stranger as he walked toward the road, leaving the house.

"Did you notice anything unusual about the animals at the Tumlin place," asked Coroner Donehoo.

"Nothing, except one of the dogs was lying around father's place all day."

The stranger was a slim fellow, Rosser said. It was about 10 o'clock when he saw the stranger—a young man, who appeared from the distance to be about his own age, dressed in overalls.

"If there had been any screaming in the house would you have heard it," asked Coroner Donehoo.

"I was hammering nails practically all of the time I was there."

Coroner Donehoo then asked the

Ruby Ray Clings to Story That She Killed W. H. Cheek

GIRL BANDIT REFUSES TO DON MALE ATTIRE

Clinging stubbornly to her statement to Solicitor General John A. Boykin Tuesday, declaring that she fired the shot which snuffed out the life of William H. Cheek, Peachtree road grocer, Ruby Ray, red-headed girl bandit, Wednesday afternoon refused to don the clothing of Jack Wilson, an attorney, whom it is claimed fired the shots. Wilson is described as being of a robust figure.

Mell Gore, who was saved from the electric chair Tuesday by a last-minute 60-day reprieve granted by Governor Walker after the supreme court issued a mandamus nisi compelling John D. Humphries of Fulton superior court to show cause why an injunction should not be granted against the execution, will not be questioned at present by Solicitor Boykin in regard to the Ray woman's statement, the solicitor stated Wednesday afternoon.

Gore Near Collapse.

Gore was returned to Fulton tower from the death cell in Milledgeville Tuesday afternoon and is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, according to attaches at the jail.

Late Thursday afternoon, the solicitor did not decide whether he would ask that Ruby be brought before him again today. It will take considerable time to go into details of the statement and she will be called by the solicitor for questioning until an exhaustive probe into the entire affair has been made again, the solicitor said.

The girl bandit can not be forced to don the attire of Wilson which was found in Chattanooga shortly after he is said to have fled after the killing of Cheek, according to attaches in the solicitor's office.

Gore has repudiated the statement of Ruby Ray after having declared shortly after she had signed it, that it was the truth.

of formation flying. They soared over Chattanooga in numerous maneuvers after they had flown for a short time over the city of Atlanta. Henderson Hallman, general chairman of the reception committee, presided at christening exercises. He introduced V. E. Cheneau, vice president of the Florida Airways corporation; L. S. Flo, pilot of Miss Atlanta; George M. Napier, who represented Governor Clifford Walker; W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the aviation committee of council; Mayor Pro Tem Claude E. Buchanan, and Asa G. Candler, Jr., who made short talks. Mr. Hallman presented to the crowd C. Howard Candler and Walter L. Candler who did not make speeches but who were represented as being "two men who had helped make possible a municipal landing field for Atlanta."

Pilot Given Roses.

Mr. Candler presented a bouquet of roses to Pilot Flo and Vice President Cheneau, of the Airways corporation, and officially presented Candler field to the city of Atlanta to be used as a landing field for the mail service.

"Miss Atlanta" appeared in the south at 3:25 o'clock and landed on Candler field 15 minutes ahead of her schedule, it was announced. The north and southbound planes, leaving Miami and Atlanta, respectively, at 7 a. m. eastern time, each made the trip in approximately 9 hours and 30 minutes.

Sitting on the speakers' stand during the official welcoming ceremonies were members of the city council of Atlanta and Hapeville, Fulton county commissioners and leaders of various civic organizations.

Officials of the Airways corporation, city officials and others connected with the enterprise were entertained at a dinner Wednesday night at the Ansley hotel by R. E. L. Cone.

ATLANTA PLANE REACHES MIAMI.

Miami, Fla., September 15.—(AP)—Loaded with thousands of letters and parcels, the air-mail plane, Miss Atlanta, arrived here at 4:45 (eastern standard time) today, completing the inaugural southbound flight of air-mail service between Miami and Atlanta on schedule time.

The plane and her pilot were greeted here by postal representatives and members of various civic organizations. John P. French, southern district manager for the Florida Airways, Inc., supervised the arrival and transfer of mail to the Miami postoffice.

COMMERCE BODY ENTERTAINS VISITING FLYERS.

Aviators who flew to Atlanta from surrounding states for the inauguration of the air mail service between Atlanta and Florida were guests Wednesday night at dinner at the Ansley

Young Harris college and had taught in several states, last year in Greenville, S. C., city schools. She was a young lady of pleasing personality and wide acquaintance.

Besides her father, she is survived by a brother, Colonel W. V. Lance, representative-elect from Hall county, and a number of brothers and sisters.

BIG COTTON FIRM OPENS OFFICE HERE

has been moved from Memphis, Tenn., to Atlanta, with C. B. Howard returning to Atlanta to take charge. This office will open early next week and will give a selling agency in this section to the cooperative growers of the western states.

All four of the cotton firms will have extensive quarters in the Atlanta Commercial Exchange building, those already opened here being Cook & Co., Memphis domestic and export firm, with O. L. Stevens in charge, and J. S. Blount, spot cotton firm of Memphis, with E. R. Seigler in charge of the local branch.

An idea of the tremendous business of the Japan Cotton company is contained in the statement that this firm, one of the oldest and largest organizations of its kind in the world, has an annual volume of 2,500,000 bales, of which 1,000,000 are American-grown. The manager of the new local branch of this firm, Mr. Ramsey, is a native of Georgia, his home town being Toccoa, Habersham county. His family will come to Atlanta with him. He said Wednesday that his company will open large sample rooms here, samples of cotton purchased in this territory to be shipped here for classification and inspection.

Mr. Howard, of the cotton growers' exchange, said that C. B. Howard, Jr., author of the Howard cotton code, will also have offices here as assistant manager. Mr. Howard has leased the J. Clifford Candler home at 56 Westminister drive and will return from Memphis within a few days with his family.

Location in Atlanta of these four concerns demonstrates the popularity of this city with the cotton trade and lends emphasis to the importance of a move among cotton, textile and allied interests to seek development of this city as a recognized point for deliveries against futures contracts on the New York and New Orleans exchanges. This movement has been quietly under way here some time, its leaders asserting that its success would result in tremendous increases in quotations on Georgia cotton.

LEAVE MEXICO ALONE, SAYS KLAN

Washington, September 15.—(AP)—Vindicating its third biennial convention, the Ku Klux Klan today adopted unanimously a resolution requesting the American government not to interfere in the religious controversy in Mexico.

"This another issue was drawn between the Klan and the Knights of Columbus, which have appealed to President Coolidge through Secretary Kellogg for intervention in the dispute between the Calles government and the Catholics in Mexico. Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Klan, will appoint a special committee to present a copy of the resolutions to Secretary Kellogg at the state department this week.

Resolution of Klan.
As presented by the Michigan delegation and adopted by the convention, the resolution follows:

"Whereas—For more than 100 years the people in Mexico have been struggling for independence from European political and religious influences, such influences being largely, if not entirely, responsible for the ignorance and ignorance in which the masses of Mexicans have lived, and continue to live, we do hereby resolve:

"Resolved—By the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in convention assembled, that we sympathize with the present government of the republic of Mexico in its efforts to free the people from stultifying foreign influences, to popularize education of the masses and to establish a government of the people, by the people and for the people. Be it further:

"Resolved—That it is the sense of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan that the government of the United States of America should in no way interfere in the internal affairs of Mexico except for the protection of the rights of American citizens guaranteed by international law or for the preservation of the Monroe Doctrine from infringement by European powers."

Will Attend Church.
Besides adopting this resolution the Klan at its final session made several changes in its constitution to make that instrument more workable and the assembled delegates bound themselves by solemn oath to go home and worship in the Protestant churches every Sunday.

Dr. Evans described this as perhaps the most important act of the convention, explaining that it would put millions of men in the churches on Sunday.

Dr. Evans was authorized today to continue to occupy hotel suites in hotels during his travel over the country and to otherwise maintain the standard of living commensurate with the "dignity of the Klan."

Dr. Evans put the question up to the convention after the delegates had unanimously voted to turn over to him for his private use a small yacht owned by the organization and now in Florida waters.

The imperial wizard frankly told the convention that he had adopted a policy for a high standard of living, and that he used an automobile numbered only three behind the newest car in the service of the President of the United States.

"Boys, I've just been strutting my stuff," Dr. Evans said, "I'm going to leave it to you whether I shall continue to do so."

The convention gave its approval with a roar of applause.

AGNES SCOTT OPENS WITH BIG ENROLLMENT

Decatur, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—Agnes Scott college opened its fall term here today, appropriate exercises featuring the beginning of the session of this famous institution.

Rev. L. R. Christie, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, of Atlanta, was principal speaker. In his address Rev. Mr. Christie delivered the keynote of the coming session.

"How are we going to make the years spent at Agnes Scott, that great institution that has vitalized education in the south; how are we going to make those years bring their greatest values? We will count the years spent in the college, which are dedicated to the cause of real learning and to the forming of real character, wasted, unless we approach them with the spirit of fairness.

"It is difficult to be fair. We must use our hearts, heads and hands to be fair to our fellowmen, but to be fair to ourselves is an even greater problem to meet. We are the worst enemies we have and in the college environment we show our enmity. We find ourselves accepting the views of our professors and those whom we think know more than we do. We cease thinking for ourselves and accept their opinions without any consideration. This is nothing but sheer cowardice. It requires courage, character and conscience to be fair without ourselves as well as our fellowmen.

Chairman J. K. Orr, of the board of trustees, and Mrs. S. E. Thatcher, president of the alumnae association, delivered greetings to the students.

Mr. Orr impressed upon the students their duty to show appreciation to those who were making it possible for them to attend Agnes Scott, their families and the founders of the school. Mr. McGhee, of Decatur, who welcomed the students on behalf of Decatur and the community; Neil L. Anderson, of Savannah; Rev. J. J. Moncrief, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Decatur; were the other speakers on the program. Mrs. S. G. Stokes, alumnae of the school, contributed a musical number to the program.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of the college, stated that the college was filled to capacity for the fall term—250 boarders and 200 day students. These students were being carefully classified and by Friday the regular classes and lectures will begin, it was announced.

TWO DAYS GIVEN CHILDREN AT FAIR TO ATLANTA SCHOOL

The Southeastern fair next month will have two school children's days instead of one, by ruling of the Atlanta Board of Education, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the board.

The action of the public school governing body sets aside Saturday, October 2, the opening day of the fair, as negro school children's day and Monday, October 4, as white school children's day.

The fair grounds can accommodate comfortably not more than 75,000 persons a day and the less than 95,000 who attended on children's day last year caused a continued jam in all the exhibition buildings and all the exhibition buildings and along the midway. Larger school enrollment this year, and the opening of the fair, would have resulted in crowding beyond the point where all individuals in the crowd could have received full value from the educational features of the fair.

Attendance of more than 25,000 on opening day and nearly 50,000 on the white children's day is anticipated as a result of the revised plan. All classes in colored schools will be dismissed on Saturday and all classes in white schools will be dismissed on Monday. All school children will be admitted for 15 cents those days.

Atlanta Policeman Takes Post as Chief Of Force at Hialeah

The resignation of Patrolman G. M. Gorman from the police force was accepted Wednesday night by the police committee of city council. Gorman explained that he is going to take the position of chief of the Hialeah, Fla., police department.

Ferman Clay was elected to fill the vacancy. Four new supernumeraries were added to the list by the committee at the regular meeting Wednesday night. They were L. R. Catlett, F. L. Smith, J. E. Allen and A. M. Davis.

McLarty To Speak AT RED MEN'S LODGE

George N. McLarty, prominent Atlanta attorney and active in fraternal circles of the city, will be the principal speaker at a public meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Red Men's wigwam, 18 Central avenue. The subject of his address will be "Woodcraft."

The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World and matters of public importance will be discussed. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Emma Brooks will make a brief talk on the Woodmen's circle, an auxiliary of the fraternal order. Paul Donahoe is scheduled to render a number of piano selections.

Marietta, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the 39th senatorial district committee, composed of Cobb, Cherokee and Douglas counties, held here Tuesday for the purpose of nominating a senator for the ensuing term, H. S. Willingham, of Marietta, was nominated, he having received the total vote cast in the recent primary, there being no opposition.

The senator-elect named the following as members of the executive committee for the ensuing two years: Cherokee county, Dr. R. C. Sharp, of Waleska, and B. F. Perry, of Ball Ground; Douglas county, Judge J. H. McLarty and H. L. Dorris, both of Douglasville; Cobb county, Otis A. Brumby, S. C. Mohon, W. M. Ward and J. B. Cox.

He owns extensive operations at White Stone in Gilmer county and is considered one of Cobb county's most progressive farmers.

SMALL BOY INJURED
WHEN HIT BY AUTO

James Skelton, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Skelton, of 333 South Main avenue, was taken to Grady hospital Wednesday with a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries received when knocked down by an automobile at DeKalb and South Main avenue, police records show.

The automobile that struck the boy was driven by R. W. Barnette, of East Point, who took the injured youth to the hospital and told police that the child ran from behind the car and fell directly in the path of his car.

Police ordered Barnette held pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

"MY LIFE STORY"

Written by Rudolph Valentino

Types Differ; Harmony
Can Be Realized by One's Own Mind—Rudy Says

In this interesting installment Valentino tells of their invitation to share a villa at Deauville—their arrival. His narrative teems with heart interest and frankness. You almost feel you were along with the "Master Lover" of all time on his vacation of love.

Installation XII. These days of ours—Natacha and I—in Paris are to be like bright beads, strong on the thread of memory, one after the other. Each one transcendent and glittering. Each one perfect and many-faceted.

Natacha agrees with me. Paris is like the light wine of the movies. It tinges them with romance and expectation. It lays upon the feminine shoulders a delicate lace of poetry.

Every woman has a type of her own. One of the things the movies has done is to help women in their selection of the type of clothes they should wear.

Of course, there is one danger in this, and that is, that some women do not know their own types. Or, if they do know them at heart, they like to devote themselves into believing that they are the type they would, contrarily, like to be.

For instance, a girl with the same general outline of Elsie Ferguson might wish to look like Nazimova, and in imitating the wrong type, might make of herself—well, a nothing-at-all. That is why I say that the fundamentally important thing for a woman to know, or to learn, if she doesn't know, is how to dress. And that includes—based on, indeed—her knowledge of her own type.

Well, Natacha tells me that I have been writing an hour and more and some of her gowns have just arrived from Paris.

Who am I that I should write if I can see the lovely Natacha "modeling" for me in the new and ravishing Poiret frocks?

More of this—tomorrow. Hebertot phoned today and has invited us to the Grand Prix at Deauville. He has engaged a whole suite for three days, he said, because there is to be such a tremendous crowd. Little, stuffy back rooms are going at 600 francs a day. Something fantastic, it seems to me.

Natacha and I accepted the invitation with pleasure and excitement. I said: "I hope it won't rain, I'd like to bathe."

And Natacha said: "I am so very glad that I have the Poiret gowns."

Here we are at Deauville. Outside my window the rain washes down in torrents. Such a rain as I had expected in London, and didn't get, and never dreamed of in Deauville—and here it is! Traveling is a capricious business. A thing of many moods. When I made this philosophical (?) observation to Natacha she said that I doubtlessly compared it to women—but I told her I never compared anything to women—anything, that is, save flowers and France and song. We had a rather amusing trip down.

In the morning Jacques Hebertot called at the hotel in his car, and with some flurry and pleasant stir and bustle, Natacha and I got into the open car, the closed one being loaded up as was intended.

We were taking in the countryside with veritable glances of enjoyment and omitted the indications overhead—and then came the downpour.

Discomfit of Travel. While discussing what we should do—go on—or change cars—Natacha settled the point. She declined to drive with me longer in the open car, pleading that to do so longer would completely ruin her beloved Poiret frock.

The result was that Natacha got out of the open car and rode in the closed car with the baggage, and Hebertot changed cars and got in with us—when he caught up with us, leaving his car to the solitary occupancy of his chauffeur.

Eventually another change was made and Natacha got into Hebertot's car and the third car brought up the rear with the luggage as the solitary occupant.

We arrived at Deauville at 11 o'clock at night.

As soon as we reached the villa we tumbled off to bed—Natacha and I. And more discomfort. There were no fires. Hebertot said he would telephone for a man to make them at once—only to find that the villa had no phone. And then down the stairs came a woman who announced herself as "our housekeeper," and gravely asked if "we were comfortable."

We burst into simultaneous and irrepressible shrieks of laughter. She herself joined in our laughter—and then withdrew.

"Well," I said to Natacha, optimistically, "after all, it's just as well that it rained today, for tomorrow will be fine, and we can get some good bathing suits and flannels and things like that. It's really what I came to Deauville for."

I was awakened the next morning by hearing Natacha say, mischievously, "What did you come to Deauville for, Rudy?"

I opened my eyes to a world shivering under blankets of cold mist and oppressive chill. Foggy. Rainy. Cold.

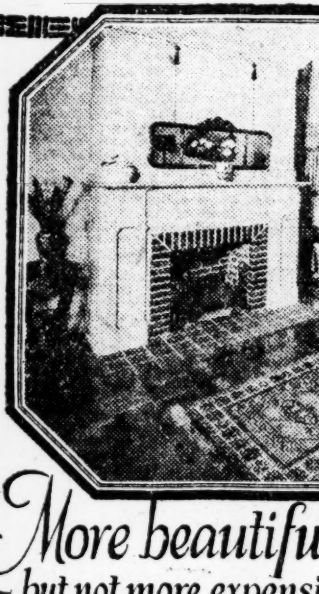

I had the grace to laugh. "I should have brought a fur-lined bathing suit," I said to Natacha, "and you should have left your white Poiret suits and sun-shades and such things safely back in Paris."

I may add that here, tonight, the last of our stay in Deauville, neither Natacha nor I had yet been in the water, nor felt any desire to go in.

Don't miss tomorrow's installment of Rudolph Valentino's own intimate story of his European honeymoon trip, and his very soul thoughts. Tomorrow's chapter will tell of the night in a world famous casino, atop a mountain, whence William the Conqueror had gone forth to triumphant victory. He paints a picture of tragedy in this rendezvous of make-believe joy. He tells of the tragedy-stricken faces of all men—the hardened, painted, pitifully striving faces of the women—all quivering for gold. An amazing chapter that will intrigue you.

HUNTERS MAY BAG
SOME GAME NOW
UNDER STATE LAW

The open season in Georgia for hunting quail will not begin until November 20, but persons holding hunting licenses may bag rabbits and several other kinds of small game now, according to Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner.

There is no closed season for hunting rabbits, but hunters must have a state license. The open season for woodcocks and marsh hens began Wednesday. The open season for doves begins October 16, and for snipes on November 1.

County licenses cost $1, state licenses $3 and licenses for nonresidents cost $25. Commissioner Twitty is now mailing out instructions to county wardens relative to the hunting season this fall.

Bobby Meets Evans and Gunn Von Elm in Today's Play

Purple Prospect Good With 40 Men Training

BY BEN COTHMAN.

When Shorty Doyal sounded first practice call at Boys' High a few weeks ago, he was greeted by only a handful of new men and the outlook on the season was somewhat gloomy. In the days following six or seven men have returned and a wealth of good material has been uncovered in the form of Junior high school stars.

The six letter men who have returned are Brock, Winn, fullback, and Hank Winn, who plays end; Shelby, a linebacker; Duke Turner, another linebacker; and Sam Colvin and George Shivers, both of whom will be in the backfield this year, according to Shorty.

All of the above mentioned men have been working out for some time, with the exception of the Winn boys, who will be in Monday afternoon.

Boys' High has prospects of a speedy squad if nothing else. Shorty had a backs returning punts against Shivers Wednesday afternoon, and they showed up well. Two new ones, Emmitt Rusk and George Breibacher, from O'Keefe Junior High, are especially good, being able to get and stop, besides getting away well. Bill Harper also showed his skills to the tacklers on several occasions.

On the other side Frank Vinn was doing under the punts with considerable speed and his tackling is good.

Shorty has held two or three scrimmages and expressed himself yesterday as being satisfied with the show, made by his boys. "They look pretty good to me," he said.

He has worked out a combination first string team that will look something like this:

Center, McGhee and Mar. Guards, Turner and Fincher. Ends, Frank Winn and Elliott. Linebackers, Shivers and Breibacher, quarterback, Bill Harper, Sam Colvin or Wop. Halfbacks, Shivers and Brock. Fullback, Wop. Line, who is playing his first game for Boys' High was a star halfback at Decatur last year, and has been showing up well in practice with Turner and Elliott, another Junior

SPILLER BUYS TWO NEW MEN FOR CRACKERS

R. J. Spiller, president of the Atlanta baseball club, announced at the game Wednesday afternoon that he had purchased two new players to play with the Crackers—one to join them Friday and the other to join them next spring.

Otto Dumas, hard-hitting outfielder of the Sanford club in the Florida league, will set foot on Spiller field Friday to take part in the game with the Birmingham Barons in their last day here this season. Dumas hits .310 here at an average of .370.

The other addition to the Cracker lineup is Pete Fowler, left-handed twirler of the Greenville club in the South Atlantic league. Fowler has a fifty pitching record and is doing good in that league. He will not report for duty until the spring training season next year.

JUNIOR HIGH COACHES FORM GRID PROGRAM

Coaches and officials of the Atlanta junior high schools held a meeting Wednesday night and arranged the details for the coming junior high football season, and elected president and secretary for the 1926 Junior High Athletic League.

Coch D. I. Parham, of Joe Brown, was elected president, and H. L. Langston vice president.

Three dates for games between the schools were also arranged at the meeting. October 21, O'Keefe will play Hoke Smith at O'Keefe and Bass will play Joe Brown at Joe Brown. November 1, Hoke Smith will take on Bass at Hoke Smith and the O'Keefe boys will meet Joe Brown on the Joe Brown field. November 18, O'Keefe will play Bass on the Bass lot, while Joe Brown and Hoke Smith will play on a field to be decided later. These are the only three dates arranged so far.

ie turned the trick, however, and he won the hole.

Reekie Slows Up.

Bobby also won the eleventh, but here Reekie took three putts to lose the hole. Bobby's was in the trap at the right of the green on the short twelfth. His chip shot was well past the pin and he missed the putt. It seemed impossible for Reekie to lose the hole because he was on in one and not more than 35 feet from the pin, but his putting touch failed at the crucial moment and he took three putts to halve the hole and leave Bobby five up.

The thirteenth was halved in five when both players took three putts to get down after getting on in one. Bobby's second putt came before that of Reekie and his miss opened the way for the New Jersey golfer to pick up a hole, but he also failed and the match stood dormie five, going to the fourteenth.

Reekie threatened to prolong the match on the fourteenth when he holed a 20-footer for a par four after being in trouble on his second shot, but Bobby holed his 10-footer to halve the hole and end the match, 5 and 4.

It was a struggling Bobby Jones who battled through the morning match to win one up over Richard Jones, Jr., of New York, the match saw-sawing back and forth and never ceasing until the balls were down on the eighteenth green.

First a struggle.

Bob started the round in trouble and found difficulty on more than half the remaining holes. It was not the great Bobby who played the perfect round of golf ever witnessed at a national tournament here on Monday. It was more like the Bobby who won the national open at Scioto despite bad breaks and periods of bad play.

It is not to be construed that Dick Jones is not a worthy opponent. He is one of the best match players in the game and with one exception he took advantage on any openings offered by Bob.

Bob's mistakes were not frequent as is evidenced by the fact that he shot a 76 for the round but Dick only once failed to make a putt.

The match started with Bob in the rough to the left of the green on his second shot and when his third hit the branches of a tree the chip was short. A chip and two putts put him down for a 6 but Dick was on with a beautiful second and took a birdie four.

Both played the second with perfect fours though Dick had to play two shots from the rough and took one putt to get his par. Bob squared the match on the third when Dick hooked his tee shot to the left in the trees and his second was in the ditch short of the green. He dropped back with a penalty and was on in four. His first putt did not drop and he conceded the hole to Bob who carded a perfect four.

Both were putting for birdies on the short fourth but both missed and took par three, leaving the match all even.

The fifth also went down in perfect four; with Bobby putting for a birdie on this hole and on the sixth. Both

Details of Jones And Gunn Rounds Radioed to A. A. C.

Members of the Atlanta Athletic club, of which both Bobby Jones and Watts Gunn, who are now entered in the national amateur golf tournament at the Baltusrol Country club in New Jersey, are members, will get a hole-by-hole detail of the matches of these two stars today and tomorrow, according to announcement made by Bailey and company Wednesday, who have installed an elaborate receiving set in the club for that purpose.

Players gave the gallery a thrill when they rigged the cup with two putts. They halved this hole in four.

Seventh a Sad Affair.

The long seventh was a sad affair for the followers of Bobby. Here he sliced the spoon shot into the rough to the right and his chip shot fell short in a bunker. His explosion shot out of the trap was 12 feet short of the pin and he missed the putt to lose the hole with a six while Dick took a par five.

This putt Bobby one down going to the ninth but he won the last hole on the ninth with a four. This is a par three hole but both players were in trouble from the tee and when Dick sent his second in a trap Bob was on with his and took two putts to win.

They turned the ninth all even and Bobby immediately got himself down again by dropping his second shot short in a trap and carding a five to Dick's four. Dick won this hole by a beautiful approach shot which was dead to the pin for one putt.

The eleventh was halved in fours and then Bob again squared the match with a par three on the short twelfth. Dick was in the trap to the right of the green with his tee shot and his second was short to the lip of the bunker and though he hit the hole with his chip shot from the edge of the bunker, it failed to fall and Bob, who was down in two putts won the hole.

The thirteenth saw the turning point in the match when Dick missed his third putt of less than 2 feet and Bobby holed a four-footer for a four. This hole looked bad for Bob when his second rolled over the green to a trap but he was out beautifully and took one putt. This putt Bobby one up and was never headed again in the match.

They halved the fourteenth and fifteenth in par fours and then both took three putts on the short sixteenth to halve the hole with buzzard fours. Bob was away and his approach putt went six feet past the cup. Dick's ball was also over about two feet. Bob missed his putt on the hilly green and it looked like a hole for Dick but he missed his second putt.

On the seventeenth Dickie Jones won the admiration of the gallery when he halved the hole with Bob after it seemed almost impossible for him to keep from losing. Bob's third was safely on the green but Dick's fell short in the trap but a perfect chip shot to within eight feet of the pin left him a putt and he sank it for a par five to halve the hole.

With dormie one at the eighteenth the thrill of the match reached its apex. Both drives were long and safe and Bob reached the green with his second but Dick did not. It looked like a win for Bob but he lost his approach shot dead for a putt and they halved the hole with birdie fours.

Watts started the morning round by getting into trouble with his second shot on the first hole and taking a six to Westland's five but he turned the tables on the second by winning the hole with a five while Westland was down in six.

They halved the next two and Watts won the fifth and seventh and they reached the turn with Watts two up. They halved the next two and Westland won the twelfth but Gunn returned the compliment by taking the thirteenth and fourteenth. Jack took the fifteenth but Watts came back to win the sixteenth and end the match 3 and 2.

EVANS RAMPANT FOR JONES MATCH.

BY FRANK GETTY

Baltusrol Country Club, Short Hills, N. J., September 15.—The luck of golf has brought together an old master and a new, and Chick Evans, who was winning national amateur and open championships more than a decade ago and who came out of the west this year gunning for Bobby Jones, will meet the present titleholder in the quarter-finals Thursday.

The veteran Chicago star admits with his familiar cheerful grin that his game is on the wane, but his consummate ambition was to meet Bobby at match play in the present championship.

Evans feels that it would be the crowning achievement of his declining career if he could spike the "Big Bertha" of modern golf, a triumph Chick would choose in preference to another amateur championship.

Now, Bobby, who is out to win his third amateur championship in succession, has no intention of being killed into a beating by the ubiquitous Chicagoan, so the match promises to produce the first fireworks of what has been an unexciting show thus far.

The situation at Baltusrol has been completely dominated by the exciting and popularity of Robert Tyne Jones, Jr., that the amateur championship has become a one-man show.

Calling Bobby "Big Bertha" proved not inept, for every time his shots boomed down the fairway the earth trembled as the spectators shivered with delight, and another opponent bit the dust.

At the end of the first day of match play, eight men remained in the tournament.

Besides Jones and Evans, they were George Von Elm, of Los Angeles; Watts Gunn, of Atlanta; George Dawson, of Chicago; Eddie Held, of St. Louis; Francis Ouimet and Fred Wright, Jr., of Boston.

These eight have been paired as follows for Thursday's matches:

Jones vs. Evans.

Ouimet vs. Wright.

Held vs. Dawson.

Von Elm vs. Gunn.

ROBERTSON GROOMS BIRDS TO MEET TECH

BY ALTON REDFEARN.

Wednesday afternoon the Stormy Petrels went through the hardest practice held since the beginning of the workouts, and as there are only eight more practice days before Coach Robertson's cohorts take the field against Georgia Tech in this, their seventh meeting, the work from now on will gradually grow harder with, perhaps, a slight let-up toward the end of next week.

The afternoon began with a hard signal practice, two teams running until almost completely exhausted. On infrequent occasions Coach Robertson halted the running in order to explain some details. The next thing on the program was the explanation of Coach Robertson of some kick-off formations. A long scrimmage concluded the workout.

Coach Robertson used his varsity against Coach Homer Chestnut's Junior Petrels in the scrimmage, and he rarely ever found it necessary for a substitution. The frosh, although playing excellent ball, were on the losing side. Time after time long runs were made by the varsity backs Campbell, Bell, Vaughn, Garlington, and White. The men who began the scrimmage were Hardin and Carroll, ends; Perkins and Guthrie, tackles; McLaughlin and Cousins, guards, and Hutson, center. Five men were used in the backfield. They were Campbell, Vaughn, White, Garlington, and Bell.

Clay Carroll, alternate captain and varsity end for the past three years, seems to have found himself, and in the scrimmage Wednesday he made some beautiful tackles. Clay also performed above par in his exhibitions while on the offensive. Joe Hutson and Ike Cousins were in the limelight also.

Coach Robertson, it seems, is not altogether satisfied with his cohorts. He is putting in more time this year as coach than any previous season, yet for the past three or four days he has been wearing a dejected look in his face. In a statement yesterday he said: "They play in spurts. I've a lot to do between now and the Tech game."

U. S. NEUTRAL IN COURT WAR TO STOP BOUT

Paul Smiths, N. Y., September 15.—President Coolidge sees no ground for federal interference in the Dempsey-Tunney fight to be held at Philadelphia, September 23, it was said here today.

Numerous protests have been received at the executive offices. These were forwarded to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who with Secretary of State Kellogg is a member of the sequential board. Hoover returned the letters with the comment that they should be answered by the president.

At the executive office the impression was that actually the fight is to be held outside the exposition grounds so that the commission has no jurisdiction.

Crackers Trim Bears With Rally in Ninth To Win by 6-5 Score

Brock Bunts in Final Stanza With Bases Full To Bring in Winning Tally—Gilbert Scores Two in Seventh.

BY CLARENCE NIXON.

Playing a different brand of ball from that of the past few days, Bert Niehoff's Crackers took the fifth game of the series from the Mobile Bears, 6 to 5, with a last spurt in the ninth inning Wednesday afternoon at Spiller field.

Cliff Markle served for the Crackers on the mound and although touched for 13 sacrifice knocks, he kept the Bears well in hand.

"Mule" Haas exhibited sterling field work, robbing Bears of many long knocks by his excellent catches.

A beautiful one-handed running catch of Welch's long drive in the eighth probably saved the day for the Crackers as Susko was pummed on the second sack ready to dash home.

He also made some great throws that prevented any advancing by the opponents.

Tutwiler, lanky Bear twirler, faced Markle on the mound and was touched for a total of 15 hits. He also turned in a well-played game, getting two outs out of three trips to the plate.

It was a good game and the Crackers were the best on the field. The Bears were charged with errors while the homecomings came through without a scratch to mar their day's record.

The first crack out of the box Williams drove out a single past third base to start the afternoon's activities.

Summary: Two-base hits, Schultz; Susko; three-base hit, Griffith; stolen base, Brock; sacrifices, Rollins, Cuto, Haas, Markle; double play, McCrone to Susko to McCrone; left on bases, Mobile 9, Atlanta 9; base on balls, off Markle 2, off Tutwiler 1; struck out, by Tutwiler 3; winning pitcher, Markle; losing pitcher, Tutwiler. Umpires, Campbell and Brennan. Time of game, 2 hours.

score Griffith, Brock forced Niehaus at second.

In the eighth the Bears tied the count. Susko singled to right, Welch and Ritchie went out in order and Tutwiler walked, sending Susko to second, from where he scored on a long single to center. Tutwiler was thrown out at third, Haas to Markle to Gilbert.

Gilbert led in the ninth with a single to center. Griffith flied out to Williams, who prevented Gilbert from advancing by his fast throw-in to right field and Gilbert went to third. Niehaus walked, filling the bases. Brock came up after a short conference with the Cracker skipper, bunted and Gilbert came sailing in home. It was a great play and the crowd went wild. Gilbert had made three dashes at home each time the ball was pitched to Brock and had Tutwiler a bit worried and when the next ball came over Gilbert was almost at the plate.

Kinston, N. C., September 15.—(P) Richmond won the pennant in the Virginia league this season by defeating Kinston, 10 to 1 here today. The Colts lead Wilson by half a game.

In this afternoon's contest, Wilson conquered Portsmouth, 5 to 3, out Richmond's victory left the standing unchanged.

Lovett, Wanted as Member Of Lance Gambling Ring Surrenders To Boykin

A. A. Barclay, Released Under $1,000 Bond, Faces Trial for Vagrancy and Resisting Arrest.

Frank Lovett, alleged member of the "Jack Lance gambling ring" who early Saturday morning eluded a cordon of city police in a downtown hotel and escaped in a manner so mysterious as to leave them dazed and mystified, has surrendered to Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Lovett, according to attacks in the solicitor's office came to the solicitor's office as the result of an exclusive story published in The Constitution Sunday morning which related in detail facts of the search for him early Sunday morning.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin wanted Lovett "for questioning" in the hope that information gained from Lovett would throw some light on the murder of Bert Donaldson, crack criminal investigator of the solicitor's staff. In his office Thursday afternoon, Lovett stated that he had questioned Lovett and that he was not being held in connection with the murder.

A. A. Barclay, 28, registered at the same hotel with Lovett last week into whose room Lovett is said to have fled when the officers pressed him close, was arrested by police and carried to Fulton tower where he was compelled to post a $1,000 bond on charges of resisting an officer and vagrancy. No definite date has been set for the trial of Barclay and he is out under bond pending hearing of his case. A handbag, the property of Lovett, was found in Barclay's room and was ordered held by officers for investigation.

Hughes Caroles Revoked. H. L. and K. K. (Mickey) Hughes, two of the earliest arrests made under orders of Solicitor Boykin in the murder probe, are now serving the remainder of their five year sentences in a Fulton county convict camp. The men were convicted in Fulton superior court on charges in connection with the robbery of the Pershing Point drug store on Peachtree street. After their arrest in the murder investigation Solicitor Boykin requested the prison commission to revoke their paroles, which was done, and they were assigned to a county convict camp to complete their respective terms. The men were questioned at length by the solicitor in regard to their activities in Atlanta just prior to the day of and after Donaldson was shot down by an assassin who was ambushed in a clothes closet in one of Atlanta's most fashionable hotels on the night of July 29.

Pastor Convicted. Larry Pastor, who was arrested shortly after the Hughes brothers and questioned by the solicitor concerning his activities with an automobile which he is said to have rented from a local rental agency, is now serving a chain-gang sentence of two years for the theft of the car.

Pastor was named in an indictment containing two counts, one of larceny after trust in connection with renting the automobile, which he failed to return, and a second of larceny of the same automobile. He was found guilty by a jury in Judge John D. Humphries division of Fulton superior court on both counts and which recommended that he serve two years on each count. According to law he will not have to serve but two years, the counts in the true bill being construed as one crime. Assistant Solicitor Ed A. Stephens prosecuted the case for the state.

Powers Still Sought. Jack Lance, who was arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., on a warrant charging murder of the investigator, being held incommunicado in Fulton tower. Solicitor Boykin has expressed the opinion that Lance is the "elevator stranger" who was seen on several occasions at the hotel with Donaldson on the night of the murder. He also believes that Lance is the man who "steered" his lieutenant into the death room in which he was shot down.

Activities of the solicitor in the investigation are being kept secret but Thursday he stated that every effort was being made to apprehend the slayers of Donaldson and that he and members of his staff and all law enforcement agencies are cooperating in a thorough and exhaustive investigation. A large number of clues have been received by the solicitor and each one is being carefully investigated. "Several weeks ago walked to his freedom from Fulton tower after securing the key to an outside entrance to the prison from a case in the jail corridor, is yet a fugitive. Every effort is being made by the sheriff's force to apprehend him.

Americans Open Parley To Stop Nicaragua Fight

Washington, September 15.—American officials have opened negotiations in an attempt to stop the revolution in Nicaragua, which caused dispatch of United States gunboats to protect American lives and property.

Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding the service squadron in Nicaraguan waters, has received the leader of the liberal revolutionists, General Moncada, aboard the U. S. S. Rochester, at Bluefields, the state department announced today. General Chamorro, head of the present government which liberals seek to overthrow and which has not been recognized by the United States, has agreed to a truce, it is understood, as result of representations made by American Charge d'Affaires Teller. The basis upon which a peaceful settlement is conditioned, involves resignation of Chamorro and establishment of a constitutional government, it is understood.

STONE MOUNTAIN ROAD IS OPENED

Stone Mountain, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—Furnishing an unbroken stretch of hard-surface paving from the Confederate carving on Stone Mountain to Atlanta, the one-mile link extending from the city limits here to the site of the carving, was opened to traffic today and hundreds of cars immediately sped over the new pavement.

The opening of the new road which has been under construction about two months, was without ceremony. When it was realized this afternoon that the paving operations were being made to turn traffic upon the pavement, a number of cars waited, and when the barricade at the west end of the stretch was removed, hundreds of cars fell in line and made the trip to the monument on the newly-finished road. L. T. Y. Nash, DeKalb county commissioner, was one of the first to turn over the new road, as was W. E. Wimpy, of Clarkston, and a party of friends.

The road is 1.148 mile long, and was built by the McDougall Construction company, of Atlanta. It is a 20-foot road of concrete base with a black asphalt surface, with a shoulder six feet wide on each side. The road was built with county, state and federal funds.

While the road was under construction, a possible detour was provided, which has been in good condition as work on the link was pushed.

The opening of the road today marks the most important event here since work of carving the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial was started, as it will enable tourists to visit the monument all times of the year, traveling upon a hard-surfaced road the entire distance from the mountain to Atlanta.

It was stated here today that a force of 20 men has begun work upon the monument and that drilling and blasting will begin next week. It is stated that all charges will be touched off at 4 o'clock each morning, beginning Tuesday. Hundreds of tourists visit the monument daily.

COALITION PARTY MAY RULE CANADA

Ottawa, September 15.—(AP)—With all but two seats of the federal parliament accounted for in yesterday's general elections, the main question in the minds of all is whether the liberal party, with 118 seats, or five short of a majority over all other parties in the house, will be content to rely on liberal-progressive, progressive and independent support in the house, or whether there will be a definite coalition given.

Such a government, according to rumors in the capital today, would include liberals, liberal-progressive and straight progressives, numbering 137 members at least, giving the government a strong majority.

The standing in the house, with two seats still in doubt, is as follows: Liberals, 118; conservatives, 90; progressives, 8; liberal-progressives, 11; united front, 11; labor, 3; independent, 2. Latest indications are that a session of parliament will be held in November to clear up all outstanding business, left over through the abrupt proroguing of parliament last July. It is presumed that Arthur Meighen and his government will resign as soon as the liberal party is able to take over the reins of office. By-elections will then have to be held to elect new cabinet ministers. Serious days lie ahead of W. L. Mackenzie King, the liberal leader, who looks forward to resuming his post as premier.

WELLER LEADING HILL FOR SENATE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Nearly complete returns from Tuesday's nine primary battles indicate the defeat of but one United States senator and only a few members of the house of representatives.

In Colorado late returns gave Charles W. Waterman, former Coolidge campaign manager and anti-klan candidate, a several thousand vote lead over Senator Rice W. Means in the republican senatorial contest. Means is commander in chief of the Spanish American War Veterans and reputed head of the klan in that state.

Weller Has Lead. A nip and tuck race in Maryland gave Senator O. E. Weller a slight advantage over Representative John Philip Hill, one of the recognized leaders of the wets both in and out of congress. Senator Weller, if victorious, will be opposed in November by another avowed wet, Representative Mildred Tiddings, who was opposed for the democratic senatorial nomination.

With comparatively few surprises noted in any of the primaries, Michigan afforded an exception. Additional returns there continued to increase the early lead taken by Mayor Fred W. Green, of Ionia, over Governor Alexander J. Groesbeck in the fight for the republican gubernatorial nomination. In the eleventh Michigan congressional district Representative Frank Scott, veteran house member, and for most of last session acting chairman of the house military committee, is locked in a tight race with Dr. Frank P. Bohn, of Newberry, for the republican nomination.

Congressional Fight. Another Michigan congressional fight, that between Representative John B. Sosnowski, and former Representative Robert Clancy, has attracted attention. Clancy, as a democrat was defeated for the present congress by Sosnowski, a republican. Clancy, now turned republican, threatens to capture that party's nomination.

Three senate veterans, Smith, of South Carolina, and Broussard, of Louisiana, both democrats, and Jones, of Washington, a republican, had comfortable margins for re-election, while Senator Dale, republican, Vermont, and Senator Butler, republican, Massachusetts, were unopposed. In the November election Senator Butler will contest with former Senator David I. Walsh, democrat.

In New York, which voted only for congressmen, former Representative Johnson, chairman of the house investigation committee, held only a slight lead over his opponent.

Senators Smith and Jones won over anti-world court candidates while Senator Broussard, a wet, was opposed by a dry.

SENATOR SMITH HOLDS LEAD OF 5,000 VOTES. Columbia, S. C., September 15.—(AP) Senator E. D. Smith had a lead of nearly 5,000 votes over Edgar A. Brown for the United States senatorial nomination in yesterday's runoff democratic primary on the basis of unofficial returns from all but 34 small precincts tabulated here today. The missing boxes, it was estimated, contain not more than 5,000 votes.

Returns from 1,329 of the 1,381 precincts gave: Brown, 75,206; Smith, 79,934.

Piling up majorities in the first returns last night and increasing their leads as returns continued to dribble last night and today, all the candidates supported by Clarence C. SENATOR SMITH HOLDS LEAD OF 5,000 VOTES. Columbia, S. C., September 15.—(AP) Senator E. D. Smith had a lead of nearly 5,000 votes over Edgar A. Brown for the United States senatorial nomination in yesterday's runoff democratic primary on the basis of unofficial returns from all but 34 small precincts tabulated here today. The missing boxes, it was estimated, contain not more than 5,000 votes.

Returns from 1,329 of the 1,381 precincts gave: Brown, 75,206; Smith, 79,934.

ALL KLAN CANDIDATES BEATEN IN COLORADO. Denver, Colo., September 15.—(AP)—With an overwhelming avalanche of ballots, the republican party in yesterday's state-wide primary drove the K. K. K., the Minute Men of America, and similar secret organizations out of control of the party's affairs in Colorado.

Piling up majorities in the first returns last night and increasing their leads as returns continued to dribble last night and today, all the candidates supported by Clarence C. Hamlin and former Governor Oliver H. Shoup, the anti-klan leaders of the party, administered defeats to those whose candidacies were sponsored by Senator L. C. Phipps, chairman of the republican

An Evidence of Refinement

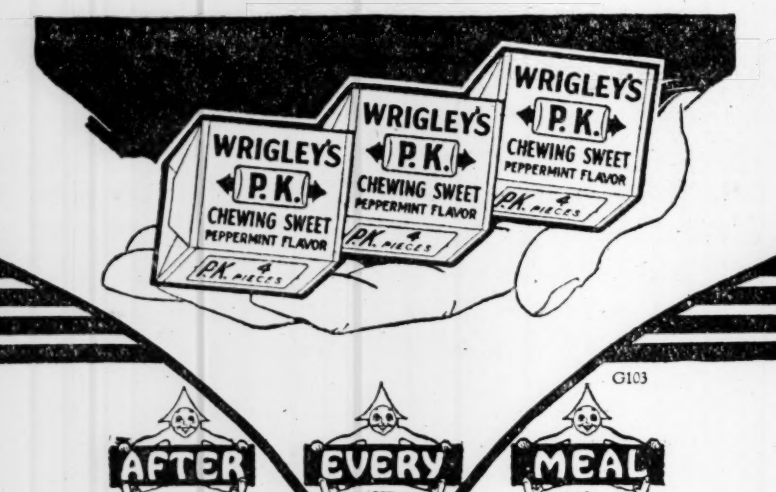

Good taste and good health demand sound teeth and sweet breath.

The use of Wrigley's chewing gum takes care of this important item of personal hygiene in a delightful, refreshing way—

By clearing the teeth of food particles, by stimulating the digestion and by antiseptic action of the flavoring extracts for which Wrigley's is famous—"The Flavor Lasts!"

The result is a sweet breath that is evidence of care for one's self and consideration for others—the final touch of refinement.

Wrigley's is a thrice daily routine of people of refinement.

—A Few More Golden Days

WHETHER it is golf, or fishing, or tennis, or just plain loafing around the summer place—whatever activity it may be which gives relish to your holiday, those golden weeks of vacation seem all too short.

Perhaps yours can be prolonged. Many men away on their vacations keep in touch with their business affairs by telephone, and are able to decide necessary matters without returning to the city.

Long distance service will give you daily contact with your office, and maybe you can extend your vacation long enough to try again for a birdie on the fifth, or for that big one which finally got away.

Miss Breitenbucher Elected President of Debutante Club

Miss Isabel Breitenbucher, pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Breitenbucher, was elected president of the Debutante Club of 1926-27 at the meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Miss Breitenbucher received her education at North Avenue Presbyterian school and later at Washington seminary, where she was elected president of the freshman and sophomore classes, and in her senior year had conferred upon her the honor of being elected editor-in-chief of the seminary annual, "Mismema." Later on she enrolled at Agnes Scott college for a year, and then went to Forest Glen, Md., where she was graduated from National Park seminary. Last year Miss Breitenbucher specialized in music, a fine art in which she is most talented, under Hugh Hodgeson, one of the most noted and brilliant pianists in the south.

Other Officers.
Miss Sara Hurt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hurt, was elected vice president; Miss Henrietta Mikell, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. H. J. Mikell, is secretary, and Miss Ann Lane Newell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Newell, was elected treasurer, completing a personnel of attractive young girls, whose families are prominently identified with Atlanta society.

Will Make Debuts.
Misses Mary Middleton, Jeannette Bailey, Elizabeth Little, Runo Irwin were included in the list who will make their debuts this winter, and who were present at the meeting.

Invitations will be extended to other young girls to join the circle and the next meeting at which definite plans will be formed for the club, will be called next week by the president, Miss Breitenbucher, the date and place to be announced later.

Miss Lewis, Bride-Elect, Honored at Luncheon.

Miss Lula Lewis, a lovely bride-elect, was honored by Miss Isabel Breitenbucher Wednesday at a lovely informal luncheon at her home on West Peachtree.

Marking each guest's place was a hand-painted card in attractive design. Covers were laid for Miss Lula Lewis, Miss Pauline Lewis, Miss Martin Riddle, Miss Sarah Fisher, Miss Julianne Hagen and Miss Breitenbucher.

The Two Ways

There are two ways to dress attractively and individually. One is to put yourself in the hands of a clever modiste and spend a fortune on your clothes. The other is to come here, where, for the merest fraction of a fortune, you may choose any of the lovely new fashions dictated by Paris, long before they have become popularized.

Follow This Rule

in skin care if safeguarding a good complexion is your aim

By NORMA TALMADGE

Copyright, 1926, by P. O. Beauty Features

It is bringing the charm of natural loveliness to thousands

BEAUTY experts throughout the world now urge skin cleansing as beauty's most important aid. Yesterday's artificial methods are quickly passing. Youthful appearance is thus preserved. Beautiful complexions by the thousands are resulting.

The rule is simple. No costly beauty methods, just the soothing olive and palm lather of Palmolive used in this way:

FOLLOW THIS ONE WEEK— THEN NOTE YOUR COMPLEXION

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

BE SURE TO GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE
It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

One of Finest Chime Clocks Ever Shown in the South on Display at Store of Stephen Philibosian

The above photograph shows the largest of several massive chime clocks on display at the beautiful store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., the well-known furniture, rug and drapery store at 581 Peachtree street.

This huge timepiece is of Gothic design, hand carved in solid Honduras mahogany. It has an imported, full four-quarter, self-adjusting movement, and its melodious chimes and artistic design have won the admiration of all who have visited the store.

This master clock has three sets of chimes and can be easily adjusted to strike either set. The chimes duplicate in tone the beautiful chimes of Westminster, Winchester and Whittington, and are sounded with a three, four and six-note variation, respectively.

This clock, with its aristocratic beauty, would grace any mansion in the South and is only one of the many distinctive pieces of merchandise now being shown by Stephen Philibosian, Inc.

An announcement of interest made by this firm this week is the fact that it has just received a large shipment of beautiful new Chinese rugs, and the public is cordially invited to see the display.

A great variety of color and design is included in this stock, making the selection of an Oriental rug for every family easy. (adv.)

Atlanta Woman's Club To Support Music Club Series

The Atlanta Woman's club will be represented in the golden shoe of boxes at the civic concert of the Atlanta Music club's 1926-27 season, lending its support to the Music club's sustained effort to keep alive the ideals of the best in music and to bring to Atlanta the greatest concert artists of the age, the Woman's club will take an official box, or more if command for seats requires additional space.

The Woman's club's action, taken by the executive board, followed the decision of a number of Atlanta's schools to support the Music club's activities this year by subscribing for boxes or blocks of seats in the arena, Washington seminary, North Avenue Presbyterian school, Woodberry hall, Morgan-Stephens conservatory and De la Puente school of piano were among the first school subscriptions.

The Atlanta Music club's membership books are open this week for enrollment of subscribing members for the club. Subscribing members pay $15 a year, in return for which they receive tickets to all attractions of the Music club's three concert series and all other privileges of active membership. The concert tickets this year will have a value of $26.50, including five civic concerts at the city auditorium, opening with Rosa Ponselle, October 14; three concerts of the "series in time" at the Woman's club auditorium, and 10 Wednesday morning concerts at the Woman's club auditorium, beginning October 6 with the presentation of a noted guest artist whose name is to be announced within the next week.

The club will admit students in colleges and public schools to all concerts of the civic series for $4 for the entire season, the lowest rate ever granted students in the south for a musical course of the quality arranged by the Atlanta Music club. A section of the auditorium has been set aside for students at the new low rate. Those tickets will be placed on sale about two weeks before the Ponselle concert opens the civic series, October 14.

The Misty Pathway

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

A STRUGGLE TO THE DEATH.

But the lioness was not asleep. She was covertly watching them from behind that thick green screen which hid her shadowy fawn body from their sight. Other eyes, too, were watching—wide amber baby eyes that had not yet learned to avoid these strange creatures which stood so near at hand, and the breeze carried away any scent which might have warned the owner of those very young eyes that here lay danger.

In spite of a low grumble of dissent from the crouching mother, the small lion cub wriggled mischievously out of reach of her punishment-dealing paw and insinuated his fat body through the leafy barrier with little yelps of joy. He had already forgotten the first object of his desire for movement. The shapeless fleshy nose was wrinkled upon a scent that had grown familiar but a couple of hours before. The pink tongue hung dribbling with greedy saliva from his mouth.

The time seemed endless to Richenda as she sat by the side of the still unconscious man.

He wobbled from behind the screen of bushes full into the sight of the three humans.

Fairways' lips compressed into a thin line. A lioness and cub—a retrograde female thing! Not the usual ancient, half blind brute that takes to man killing merely to save itself from the starvation which would follow on its repeated failures to obtain the fatter creatures that had before provided food for it, but a lioness with cubs—a young, lithe, crafty beast, cunning with the guile that nature gives to the mother creatures. Fairways knew he would need all his skill.

The baby was full before them now, mouthing at that slender tragic arm with toothless gums.

A second later a small sister had joined it and, following the lead of the disobedient young pair, whose gratified little growlings came upon its ears, a third fat infant tottered to the forbidden spot.

And the mother, moving silently from bush to bush, distracted at the danger which threatened her offspring, was deciding, with the cunning of the wild, from which point the spring she must take upon these human enemies had best come.

From the moment when the scene of the tragedy had first come to their eyes barely sixty seconds had passed.

"Don't move!" Fairways had thrown the brief command to the girl.

She had hesitated a moment. The small opening where they stood was almost encircled in straggling bushes, any one of which might hide the thing she feared. The impulse to run died away as she realized this and she drew closer to the man at her side.

It was from a spot barely ten yards away that the big tawny body hurtled through the air upon them. Soundless as a streak of lightning it came straight to where Richenda stood between itself and Fairways. His gun swung up as she leaped aside with a startled scream. His bullet, hastily aimed, brought a gush of blood across the golden hide, an agonized madness into the fury which already held the raging brute, a reverberating roar from those terrible open jaws.

The lioness and man were a tumbling heap upon the ground—a dreadful, blood-stained, panting, writhing mass, and—barely a moment later—a quietly trembling something that subsided into stillness amid a rapidly widening pool of sinister redness that spread slimily across the ground around them.

Richenda, shaken from her paralysis of sheer horror, shrieked till the countryside echoed as she covered the yards to where Jerome was pluckily dragging the scarce dead body of the lioness from the prostrate man.

The fawn babies had fled into the bushes with whines of fear.

Fairways' eyes were closed, his blood-stained face ashen. From shoulder to cuff a shirt sleeve was torn in ribbons. The blood pumped jetting from a slashed artery in one wrist, flooding Richenda in its stream.

She was not screaming now. Fingers and brain were laboring too swiftly to give in to the faintness that had threatened for one brief moment overwhelmed her. Memories of things she had learned during those far off days of war, when she worked as V. A. D. in hospitals full of battered men, came back to her. The spurting artery she stopped with a hurriedly fashioned tourniquet. Rough bandages she constructed by tearing strips from the assorted garments of herself and Fairways, by even demanding the khaki cotton shirt from Jerome's own brown back, shuddering mentally all the while at the realization that only the most sterile things should be laid upon those open, bleeding wounds.

Then she turned upon her anxious, willing helper. "You must go to Abmani and bring help, Jerome. Find white people—a doctor—mission bwanas, and make them come quickly with a stretcher!"

He was off without a moment's delay, leaving her alone with the injured man, the body of the dead lioness lying out in the glaring sunshine not ten yards away from the shade of the bush under which they had placed Brett Fairways.

From somewhere behind came the whining of the lonely cubs.

The time seemed endless to Richenda as she sat by the side of the unconscious man. There was now so little she could do but wait.

and that very waiting was purgatory itself to her. Fairways' quiet face had fallen into the gentler lines that she had known in those brief days of courtship over a month ago. A soft half smile sat upon his faintly parted lips. She sat looking down upon that face, marveling how unconsciousness could wipe out every line of domination and self-will. Sleep, too, she remembered, could do that.

Her breath came a little faster then. Death. One hand fluttered suddenly to where she could feel the faint rise and fall of his chest under the strained, torn shirt. Death. What if?

forced the thought away with a little shudder.

In another moment it was back; insinuating itself upon her again. Came another thought. This man had loved her. Love.

so precious a thing to scorn in a world that proffers it so rarely. But she had scorned it—flung it back in his face with condemning words.

Coming Back—to What?

MADISON SLAYER IS FOUND GUILTY

Madison, Ga., September 15.—(Special.)—Before one of the largest crowds that ever assembled for a criminal trial in Morgan county, John Little Tuesday afternoon heard the words that doom him, unless saved by executive clemency, to die in the electric chair for the murder here on June 24 of John G. Herrin.

The jury, which, because of high seating in Morgan county, was selected only after eight panels had been drawn, deliberated 1 hour and 50 minutes at 5:30 o'clock. The trial was heard by a crowd that filled the court room to suffocation and when the verdict was pronounced it was evident that the jurors' finding met with general approval.

City Controller B. Graham West will distribute $48,000 among 292 members of the Atlanta fire department between now and October 1 as back pay due them under a decision of the supreme court which holds valid the increase in pay voted firemen last fall, effective as of January 1, 1925. The sum represents nine months' pay increase.

Mr. West said money to meet these payments would be available immediately, as a contingent fund was set up early in the year to take care of this item in event the supreme court upheld the validity of the increase.

PLANS FOR FIDDLERS' SESSIONS COMPLETED

Judges for the southern fiddlers' championship to be contested Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon at the auditorium, will be chosen from the audience by votes of contestants themselves, according to Professor Aleck Smart, president of the Georgia Old-Time Fiddlers' association. Each judge must be acceptable to all contestants.

The late Judge Andy Calhoun was the chief arbiter in these annual fiddlers' contests for many years and on several occasions Judge "Dick" Russell, of the Georgia court of appeals, descended from that august tribunal to pass on the comparative merits of country musicians. The fiddlers' convention this week will be the first in which fiddlers from other states are invited to compete. Acceptances of the Georgia fiddlers' alliance have been received by noted fiddlers from Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina, Alabama and Florida. It is stated, while more than 50 Georgia musicians have entered the lists, each determined to uphold the prestige of their state.

Convention sessions are expected to draw thousands of visitors, as in the past. Besides the official fiddling contests there will be numerous entertainment features, with Fiddlin' John Carson, Chief Tanager, the Bull Fiddle band of Lindale, and other features on the program. Night sessions will begin at 8 o'clock, with the Saturday afternoon session starting at 2 o'clock. Tickets will be on sale at the auditorium box office.

The petition was endorsed by the mayor and council of that city under stipulation that the company would install modern telephones in place of the old type or "coffee grinder" instruments. The increase in rates becomes effective as soon as the improvements are completed.

Tekamah, Neb., September 15.—(AP)—County Physician H. W. Benson today reduced the bread and water sentence of Roy Carson, 35-year-old former liquor law violator, by 10 days when he found on physical examination that Carson, who is on his seventh day's diet in the Butte county jail was undernourished and that continuation of the diet was inadvisable.

FRENCH DEPLORE PLAN TO REMOVE U.S. WAR DEAD

Washington, September 15.—Deploing the proposal of Senator Caraway, Arkansas democrat, that American war dead be brought back from France to the United States, officials of the French embassy said that the bodies of the American soldiers form a great bond between the two nations.

The Arkansas senator who has just returned from abroad said that American graves have been desecrated as a result of French hostility to the United States growing out of the debt settlement, insulting phrases being written on many of them. French embassy officials said that ill-feeling against Americans in France has been exaggerated.

13 Nations Seek 9 Non-Permanent Seats in Council

Geneva, Switzerland, September 15.—(AP)—The atmosphere of an American city, in which the delegates to a national party convention in a bewildered way are sifting the merits of a set of "favorite sons," is reproduced in Geneva tonight with the exception that nations, not individuals, are the candidates.

No exciting is the canvassing for the nine nonpermanent seats in the council of the League of Nations that the league leaders abandoned their original plans to hold the election today and postponed it until tomorrow morning to permit the aspirants further time to line up their parties. The Irish Free State looms large in the campaign, for Ireland's candidacy for a league council seat was officially launched today. The Free State is asking for the support of all the dominions, declaring that in the judgment of the Irish Free delegation dominion interests would best be served by the presence of the Free State in the council.

Renovation of Mattresses Firm Enjoys Big Business

"This has been a great year for the mattress renovating people of Atlanta," says Paul G. Hornbuckle, president of the Gate City Mattress company of 104 Decatur street. "The business is beginning to realize more and more what fine work a well-equipped renovating plant can do with an old, soiled mattress in quick time. The prudent housewife would consider it a waste, indeed, to throw away an old mattress when it can be made as good as new again for very little money," continued Mr. Hornbuckle. "Our customers and friends have been very kind to us this year, so far, for they have not lost one hour, so far, for the lack of work. This we consider remarkable as the vacation time is usually looked upon as a dull time in our line."

Silent Fuel Oil Burner Makes Rooms Comfortable

Only a little more than a decade ago little was known of the heating of homes with fuel oil. It is true that small portable oil stoves were in use for many years but these were used to heat only one small room, yet within the past 11 or 12 years we have seen a dependable automatic oil burner installed in the fire chamber of the old furnaces and every room in the largest houses heated comfortably for 24 hours a day.

Jersey and crepe stand out conspicuously among sports fabrics and in the new styles, shaded wools and for the afternoon types, georgette, crepe de chine and velvets share honors, while in the latter fabric small printed checks are introduced.

Several models in Aubergine, or egg-plant purple, add interest to this shade, especially as it has been shown at several other openings.

Royal blue is another color that is in evidence and, like the purple just mentioned, is seen in daytime models of a house which made "Channel red" a household word.
